BULL SALE 2020

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13TH
12:00 NOON | WEST POINT LIVESTOCK AUCTION
WEST POINT, NEBRASKA

Welcome Everyone!

On behalf of my family and my consignors, I would like to invite you to our 4th Annual Brand of Excellence Bull Sale. As I am writing this, we are getting bulls ready to go to Denver to the stock show and have been blessed with a pretty mild winter with above average temperatures. Once again, we have been blessed with a lot of moisture and raising wonderful crops. I know there are many in the state that have faced many challenges, but that's one thing about people in the livestock business, it mold us into the people we are and make us the best people to be around and makes us stronger. I feel that the demand for Simmental genetics is rising rapidly by the day as people are seeing the benefits of crossbreeding to get the extra value into their calf crop. I know the last few years in agriculture haven't been what they have been in the past so it is times like this that every extra dollar we can get goes a long way and I know this set of bulls will add value, dollars and cents to everyone's program.

Once again, Roberts Simmentals is our main guest breeder and I know that they by far have the deepest set of bulls they have ever offered and everyone will appreciate them on sale day. Jerry Walsh was in our sale last year, but he has started a new chapter in life called retirement so he sold out, so I had to go and find some other breeders to have enough bull numbers to have a sale. My other guest breeders let me come into their herds and select the very best ones off the top end of their herds. I know all of us in this sale are all great cattlemen and that's how we make our living through livestock and it's our first love and passion.

We take a lot of pride in how we feed and develop these bulls as they are developed on ADM's amino gain supplement. We sure believe in this supplement and it is intended to benefit our customers to get more longevity, intended to help fertility, which in return helps eliminates a lot of problems down the road. We fed these cattle to look like breeding cattle and are developed on high roughage diets, we don't believe in getting these bulls too fat so they hold up better.

We value all of our customers as many have become great friends of mine as well. We are very fortunate to have a lot of repeat customers which makes me feel good about what we are doing. Felt Farms is always in the market to help support our customers by trying to buy their calves back or at least trying to help market their calves the best way possible. Feel free to call if you have any questions on these bulls and I will try to answer them with an honest opinion of them. Hope to see you in West Point on the 13th of February. It will be a sale you're not going to want to miss.

W/C Executive Order 8543B, Sire

If anyone was to ask what my favorite sire to use the last few years, they all got the same answer Executive Order. He has worked awesome on my cows and is a sire that I have found that all of the calves are highly marketable and are received by all cattlemen in all scenarios. This bull might be a true outlier though; he is by far the stoutest, heaviest muscled EO son that I have seen to date. He goes back to my donor cow that I own with Western Cattle Source and she has done nothing but makes good cattle and generate income. This bull made it to Denver and when you see him in person, you're going to be very impressed, I do believe.

I have always been a sucker for good red cattle and a red baldy is always there to grab my attention. This bull went to Denver and is really my kind of bull. Long bodied, smooth made and great on his feet and legs. He is so docile it was hard to get his attention on picture day and I would of really appreciated him picking his head up a little bit to show off a little more, but I'm sure most people can appreciate him for how he is. Goes back to my donor cow that I own with Western Cattle Source and has done nothing but create great cattle no matter what we have bred her to.

I'm here to tell you when this bull was born and the first 6 months of his life this was the most interesting creature ever born on this place. He was just a freak of nature in his build and structure and I always said he could be the next great one. Once we weaned him, he kind of went through a faze where he got a little too much. Now that he has grown up out of that stage, I feel he is a great breeding piece here again and could generate some high dollar calves. I should have gotten him in, broke and taken him to Denver. He has two full brothers that are going to Denver and I might like this one better now.

Here is a baldy bull that is just flat out impressive for the look that he posses with killer feet and legs on him as well. This bull will be making his way to Denver. His sire, Oracle, is a newer sire that is sure gaining popularity as we speak. The dam to this bull is second to none and gained a lot of attention winning the low percentage show at the Illinois State Fair a few years ago. The grandam to him was also selected Grand Champion in Denver a few years ago for the Cooper family in Georgia.

Through the years, I feel pretty fortunate raising some really good cattle, and not to take anything away from some of the high sellers in the past, this bull is right up there with the best of them and I feel this could be the best one for me to sell to date. This bull ironically is out of a first calf heifer to boot but you would never guess that to look at him by any means. I'm going to venture out there and say momma will be a donor in the near future. I know Lock Down has been around for quite a few years now but some bulls just need to be used and used more. Instead, sometimes we think we are going to recreate the wheel or the next great outcross but good is good and we can always use more of that. This bull is awesome structured, level made and has a great look about him I don't have a clue what he will bring but I will be pretty certain he will be cheap at the end of the day and years to come. Denver bound he is.

This baldy bull is a sib to the Perseverance bull we took and promoted in Denver this year and in the future to come. His sibs sold last year in our sale and averaged over $8,000 and won their class in the pen show in Denver. The full sib heifers this fall were the first ones gone for show heifers and the maternal sibs were our high selling bred heifers on our past Foxy Lady Sale. When mom and dad bought the 231 cow from Ruby's in Iowa a few years, back I remember Nate telling my parents that cow will flat out make some money for you and raise some flat out good cattle. This bull is maybe a little immature looking yet but made just how his brothers where last year, I do expect great results from this calf in the future.

The dam to this bull has raised some high rent show heifers that have gone on to be champions. Hunter Borg bought a sib that was champion at the state fair at all three beef shows, and the Behmer family bought a sib the year before that and won plenty of shows that year. This baldy bull is sure one that is good looking and square made. There is a lot of predictability in this cow family so expect this bull to leave a mark in someone's herd as well.

These four brothers are what I like to see when you flush a cow, consistent in how they look, how they grow and what they look like. These bulls are all marked a little different in their color pattern far as being solid black or brockle headed. They have been fun to watch grow and change and really look like good beef bulls for the industry. Their dam is an awesome Upgrade female that was a sale highlight for the Wild Wild West Sale a few years back. Haven't seen a lot of Boone Pickens calves but how he is bred, I would expect to see more of them in the future to come.

Everyone loves a red baldy and this one is super attractive in his look and a bull that balances up from end to end. Sure is a bull to add some style and length of side to a calf crop.

If you study any Simmental pedigree and if you find cattle you like, I guarantee you're going to find Upgrade or Built Right back in the pedigree. This bull is stacked with both of them in his pedigree and to look at the bull, you can see that in him. He is long, level made and handles his feet and legs awesome and gives you an eye appealing look. Here is a real nice bull for someone.

I've always liked half blood cattle and I always appreciate doubling them up and making them two generations of double bred halves which I feel in return make more consistent calves. This solid black Lock Down is as complete and fault free as you can make one. Big middle and easy fleshing and has a great look to him. His dam was the high selling bred heifer that came from Randy Bellar a few years ago and has never disappointed us yet. Lock Down cattle I think will never go out of style and there will always be demand for good cattle.

This Meant To Be bull is probably one of the most fault free ones in the sale and hard to put a hole in, as I say that he is unfortunate that he lost his tips of his ears when calving in a nice spring day we had last year. There are just some cows every year that just simply raise one of the best calves every year no matter what they are bred to. The brother to this bull was a sale highlight last year and sold to Russell Fulner at Wisner. The dam to this bull is one of the nicest young cows on the farm and should be one that is making it towards the donor pen but you can only flush so many cows. This is one made the trip to Denver.

The Style bull has probably been the hottest Angus show sire across the country in several different breeds to boot. This bull goes back to my Burning Secret cow that I own with Hilbrands Simmentals in Minnesota; she was the high seller in Louisville a few years ago. This is the natural calf out of our 231 donor cow that has done nothing but generate money and is consistently making good cattle. Last year, her pen of bulls won their class in Denver and averaged \$8,000 on our bull sale and the top selling bred this fall on our Foxy Lady Sale went back to her as well. This calf was a nickel later since we flushed the cow and wanted to get her bred back as soon as we could, but don't let that fool you as he is a growing like a weed and is flat out good. The sire of this calf is an Executive Order son we purchased from Hilbrands Cattle Co. from Minnesota and we just love the calves out of him. This calf would be $\frac{3}{4}$ brother to the Perseverance bull we took to Denver and had on display. Everything out of this cow is flat good so I wouldn't hesitate trying to own this bull.

We have sampled a little Dew North around here and I can say for a heifer bull that is a baldy, there is not a better choice out there. This bull's dam was the pick of the breeds for Pat Wiese at the John Griswold sale a year or so ago and I would say he was right. I don't always give many compliments, but Pat might become a great Simmental breeder yet! What I really need to say this is my kind of bull that I like and am proud to sell. You won't find a deeper bodied, easier fleshing bull in the sale and I feel he still gives you a good look for what he is packing behind him. They always say breed cattle how you are built as a human and I would say Pat and I are cut from the same mold.

Here is a younger Bankroll bull that will sure catch your eye and balances up really nice from end to end. He went to Denver so he is definitely a top end bull. This cow has done nothing but make good cattle no matter what we breed her to. Her heifer calf two years ago was Reserve Prospect in Denver at the junior show and ended up third overall breeding heifer at the Indiana State Fair. Bankroll is hot and as hot as this cow is you're going to want to own this bull and try to set the world on fire. Not going to lie I when I did this mating I was really hoping for a baldy heifer calf but got the complete opposite of that instead, but it turned out well in the end.

Probably one of the younger bulls in the sale but does not lack in pounds or quality. The mother to this calf moved back in her calving time but she is starting to get up there in age and just fortunate to keep her around another year as she never disappoints me one bit. We sold a $15,000 heifer out of her a few years back which was probably one of her best highlights until this bull came along. He is big topped, just packed with meat and muscle and would fit and do any cattleman a lot of good. He made the trip to Denver as well.

I know everyone can get long winded on the story behind some of these cattle but I do know that some judge on the length of the footnote and longer they are the better there're supposed to be. My buddy Pat bought the mother to this one for $90,000 off the Hartman sale. The dam side goes back to Built Right and back to the great Black Jade cow. Both of these pedigrees could write their own page in the Simmental Hall of Fame. Loaded Up has sired some high end cattle that flat out work in a lot of scenarios. Combining all of that into one pedigree this bull sure can speak for himself. There was a full sib heifer that sold for $18,500 to Tennessee, did a lot of winning there and they plan on making her a donor cow for their operation. We let this cow have a natural calf in which got a little later then we all wanted it to be but I feel someone is going to get a great buy, for if this one was a bit older and was born two hundred miles north of here we would be talking maybe another zero on the end of him, but come take advantage of this great young breeding piece.

BULL BUYERS GUIDE

EXPLANATION OF HOW TO UTILIZE API AND TI INDEXES

First, determine which index to use; if you're keeping replacements use API, if not, TI. Then, just as with EPDs, zero in on the unit difference between bulls. (As described to the left, index units are in dollars per cow exposed.) The difference can be used to determine how much a bull is worth compared to another. Or, put another way, how much you can pay for one bull compared to another. For example, when buying an all-purpose-type sire, you can quickly figure a bull scoring +100 for API is worth an extra $6,000 over a $50 bull if both are exposed to 30 cows over 4 years ($50 diff. x 30 hd. x 4 yr. = $6,000). A percentile-ranking chart is required to determine where a bull's index value ranks him relative to other bulls in the breed. For more information, visit www.simmental.org.
